WHY?

The Stanislaus Council of Governments (StanCOG) is updating the Regional Transportation Plan (RTP) for the Stanislaus County region. Your participation is an important element of the RTP.

WHAT IS THE RTP?

The RTP is the region's blueprint for future transportation improvements and investments based on specific transportation goals, objectives and policies defined by the community and its elected officials.

WHY PARTICIPATE?

Your participation at one or more of the public workshops will help StanCOG and our region's leaders set priorities for the future and determine where and how transportation funds are spent.

WHAT WILL HAPPEN AT THE WORKSHOPS?

First, you will hear a brief presentation about the regional transportation planning process. Then, we'll roll up our sleeves and break into smaller groups to receive your comments and discuss what is most important to our region in planning for our future transportation needs.

WHAT HAPPENS NEXT?

Summaries of the public input from all four workshops will be integrated into a report that will be presented to you and other members of the public for comment at a public meeting in early January.
